XKEYSCORE HELPER NOTES

There are several new and updated features in this release of the XKEYSCORE Palantir helper:

- Summary/Histogram import of data
- Data sourcing for XKEYSCORE queries
- Fixes for UI redraw bugs on query list refresh
- Fixes for disappearing links

Summary import

This feature is intended to mirror the functionality in XKEYSCORE for creating histogram grids over a query. It allows for a large dataset to be reduced down in size considerably while still maintaining useful data. As an example this is a histogram grid view over a small query in XKEYSCORE, histogrammed by From IP, To IP and To Port:

Filter	From IP	To IP	To Port	Count
			20644	19

2. Select your domain

There are two possible options for your Foundry domain.

1. [Recommended] Customer-defined with Palantir domain

- You choose a subdomain, and Palantir creates a unique domain for you with that subdomain, such as `https://<subdomain>.palantirfoundry.com.`
- The subdomain can be the name or acronym for your organization, or any codename you choose. Some customers prefer to choose a codename to avoid putting their name in public DNS records.

2. Customer-generated domain

- Warning: this option can be slower to set up, and may delay getting access to your Foundry environment.
- You choose a subdomain within your own organization's domain, such as `https://foundry.<customer>.com`, and set up a C-NAME to the alias for your selected Foundry region.
- Palantir generates a certificate signing request (CSR), which we will send to you to be signed by the Certificate Authority used by your organization.
